Biography

Lex R. Thomas is a representational artist based in Lafayette, Louisiana. They primarily work in painting mediums and immersive performance, driven by a willingness to share personal vulnerabilities with viewers. Their work transcends physical distance to reveal common human experiences through art. Lex's work has been featured and awarded in local and national juried exhibitions, including Our Point in Space, the Masur Museum's 61st Annual Juried Competition, Cur Non, and Eye of the Beholder, as well as in solo exhibitions The Human Condition and Wildflowers.

Lex co-founded ARCHIVES Exhibitions alongside Emma Sonnier and has curated multiple local group exhibitions, including Systems, BOUNDARIES, whimsy, and Root. They co-directed the installation-performance piece, Emergence, with Bethany LeJeune and have performed in choreographed works directed by Paige Barnett Kulbeth and Clare Cook. Lex was a 2023 recipient of the ArtSpark Individual Artist Grant and remains active in local community initiatives but I was growing out in bedroom, walking straight out within the of the window with my heart room and sank.

I asked but I haven't looked this closely at your face since we shared this room together in decades ago. You have turned into sand in my hands. The majority of our life together has rippled underneath my rose silently with an even presence. You will perform your annual rotation. Mom will shed tears time will disappear but will stay.
